DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-7, 9-23, 25, 27-33, 35, and 37-38 are allowed.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter.

The prior art Stout (US 5,878,404), teaches a system for managing the amortization of a loan, tracking the reduction in the principal balance of the loan, and offers a rate adjustment option which resets the rate of interest on the principal balance in response to the debtor's election and within certain qualifying conditions. The absence of the debtor's election and resetting is held fixed for the remaining term of the loan. When interest rate drops, the debtor can request to reset the interest rate where the debtor must go through qualification conditions to be eligible for the lower interest rate. The debtor have the option to reduce the monthly payment or to reduce the period remaining on the loan once qualified for the lower interest rate.

King (US 5,742,775), teaches a system for servicing and paying loan agreements between a lender and borrower providing for repayment of the loan together with interest at a periodically adjusted rate based on the terms of the agreement.

Stout and King lack a fixed payment being based on an initial interest rate serving as a maximum interest rate, the initial interest rate being based on a current interest rate;

when the current interest rate has declined, a first revised interest rate for an outstanding balance of the mortgage based on information retrieved from an electronic database, the first revised interest rate being lower than the maximum interest rate;

determining, when the current interest rate has increased and using the computer processor, a second revised interest rate for the outstanding balance of the mortgage, wherein the second revised interest rate is greater than the first revised interest rate and does not exceed the maximum interest rate;

The limitations lacking in the prior art, in combination with the other limitations clearly claimed for patent, are novel and unobvious.

A Foreign prior art and a NPL search was conducted however no relevant prior art was found.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "comments on statement of reasons for allowance".
